

THE SALK INSTITUTE

November 14, 1989

Dear Dr. McAllister,

We are planning to hold a meeting at the Salk Institute in March 1990 to mark the tenth anniversary of the discovery of phosphotyrosine. Although we have not reached the final planning stage yet, a list of speakers who have accepted is enclosed to give you some idea of what we propose.

Knowing the Council's interest in oncogenes, we are writing to ask whether you would be able to provide us with financial support for this meeting. The planned budget is $40,000, and we wondered whether you could make a contribution. Of course we would acknowledge your donation in the appropriate manner on the meeting program.

We realize that you must get many requests of this sort. However, we are not planning to make this meeting into a series, and we think you will agree that 1990 will be an appropriate time for a meeting on protein-tyrosine kinases and their targets.

Yours sincerely,

Tony Hunter
